Families often communicate and visit with each other more during the holiday season than they do the rest of the year, sharing the ups and downs of the waning year as well as repeating the family stories and traditions of holidays past. This year, make an extra effort to write down some of the stories and to glean as much information as possible from the older family members to fill in gaps in the family tree chart. Make a New Year’s resolution that 2008 will be the year you finally write up the family history, including an every-name index and some photographs, and make copies to share with the cousins. Don’t forget to send a copy to the West Virginia Archives and History Library!

Joe Geiger Named Acting Director of Archives and History Section

Commissioner Randall Reid-Smith of the West Virginia Division of Culture and History today announced that he has named Joe Geiger of Huntington as acting director of the agency’s Archives and History Section, effective immediately. Geiger will be responsible for administering the state archives, archives library, historical collections and the database for the Veterans Memorial.

Since 1998, Geiger has worked for Archives and History, serving as...

historian, Webmaster and assistant director. For the past 10 years, he has also served as an adjunct professor in the history department at Marshall University. Before that, Geiger worked in the finance division for the City of Huntington.

“Joe has been a talented and valued employee in our agency for the last nine years,” said Reid-Smith. “His knowledge and leadership skills will be a great asset to the Division.”

Geiger has published numerous scholarly articles and a book, Civil War in Cabell County, West Virginia, 1861-1865. He has a bachelor’s degree in business administration with a major in marketing and a master’s degree in history from Marshall University.

For more information, contact Jacqueline Proctor, deputy commissioner for the Division, at (304) 558-0220.

The West Virginia Division of Culture and History, an agency of the West Virginia Department of Education and the Arts, brings together the state’s past, present and future through programs and services in the areas of archives and history, the arts, historic preservation and museums. Its administrative offices are located at the Cultural Center in the State Capitol Complex in Charleston, which also houses the state archives and state museum. The Cultural Center is West Virginia’s official showcase for the arts. The agency also operates a network of museums and historic sites across the state. For more information about the Division’s programs, visit www.wvculture.org. The Division of Culture and History is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

12th Annual History Day at the Capitol Scheduled for February 21

Local groups with an interest in history or genealogy are invited to participate in the 12th West Virginia History Day on Thursday, February 21, 2008, at the State Capitol Complex in Charleston during the regular session of the West Virginia Legislature. Local historical groups are expected to provide displays and reenactments in the Rotunda of the State Capitol. Historians, genealogists, educators, preservationists, veterans, fraternal organizations, librarians, ethnic groups and families with an interest in West Virginia’s history are invited to provide exhibits featuring historical documents, photographs, artifacts and publications. Other attractions will include reenactments of events in the state’s history, music, and storytelling. Applications from groups interested in setting up displays on history-related projects are due by January 28, 2008.

At an awards ceremony in the State Theater of The Cultural Center, “History Hero” awards will be presented to people who have made significant grass-roots contributions to the preservation of local or regional history. State, county, and local historical, genealogical, preservation, museum, patriotic and other similar groups are encouraged to provide nominations for the awards. Authorized by the Legislature, West Virginia History Day commemorates local groups’ efforts to preserve, protect and promote the study of the Mountain State’s past.

Organizers of this year’s efforts are the West Virginia Division of Culture and History, West Virginia Archives and History Commission, West Virginia Historical Society, West Virginia State Museum, and West Virginia Historical Society.
